Cardinals, Reds Both Scheduled Games Here in 1921

ROARIN' TWENTIES (Continued): Charley Grace came home from the international convention of the United Mine Workers of America, held at Indianapolis, and he wasn't a bit satisfied with the proceedings, according to a story he gave The Daily Register which the paper printed in its Sept. 6, 1921, issue.

Charley, an executive board member, charged that Illinois, with her 95,000 coal miners, was given a black eye by the convention. How? He said delegates from outlying districts were sent there for the sole purpose of injuring Illinois and to take away her full voting power in future national conventions.

According to Mr. Grace, the convention at Indianapolis adopted a new constitution, one act of which reduces the delegate power at these conventions to one for every 500 members. He said the convention was controlled by "picked" delegates from the states where the miners' union has few members.

Today we're continuing our look into the three 1921 Harrisburg newspapers sent to us by Ed Webster.

You people down in Gallatin county—listen to this:

There's a story out of Lawrenceville in the Illinois Miner of Sept. 30, 1921, which says "Hopes that the Illinois oil fields may be extended by the discovery of oil in Gallatin county have just been ended with the completion of a well near Shawneetown at a depth of 3,200 feet without finding oil."

"Another exploration near Omaha a few miles north is still dry at 1,500 feet and oil men believe that these wells prove that the Illinois fields do not connect with the fields of Kentucky as had been expected."

"Other exploration wells had been planned near Bosky Dell and Harrisburg but may be abandoned. "Oil men and geologists believe that the oil resources of the entire state have been thoroughly explored and the extent of all the major pools clearly defined."

Somebody wrong again.

A local item tells of a number of Harrisburg persons who motored to Marion to see the circus but were unable to return after the show because of rain and came in on the morning Big Four the next day.

Same paper told of the coming visit of the second place Cardinals of St. Louis to Miner Field in Harrisburg on Oct. 16 for a contest with the Harrisburg Miners.

"The game was booked by President Parish and Frank Mathews who went to St. Louis yesterday to schedule a game," the story said.

"Parish and Mathews had a personal talk with Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals. The Cardinals were anxious to come back to Harrisburg for a game, remembering the good treatment they received here last year. The Sunday date was given Harrisburg over a score of other towns who clamored for the date."

"The complete Cardinal team with the exception of Rogers Hornsby will be in action here. Hornsby, who is one of the highest salaried men in baseball, does not care to wear himself out on the barnstorming trip, he stated."

"Sherdel, Haines, North, Pertica and Bill Doak will be the pitchers. Clemons or Ainsmith will be the receivers and the same team as in the past will be here save Hornsby."

"The admission for the game will be a dollar, with 25 cents for the grandstand. This will give Saline county fans an opportunity to see both the Cards and the Cincinnati Reds here the same week, as the Reds appear on October 12."

Gone are the days.

2 Bandits Escape With $8,700 in Evansville Holdup

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Police searched a three-state area today for two bandits who escaped with $8,700 in a loan office holdup. The men, one reported wearing cowboy boots, grabbed money from cash drawers late Wednesday at the North Side Federal Savings and Loan Assn. They escaped in a car believed bearing Illinois license plates.

Kenneth Allen, the firm's district secretary, was one of five employees in the office when the robbers walked in. He said one of them pulled out a chrome-plated revolver and ordered the employees to stand back as the robbers headed straight for the counter.

One bandit held the gun and the other scooped cash from drawers into a brown paper sack. As they started for the door, the armed man warned, "Don't anyone follow us."

There were no customers in the office at the time.

Police threw up road blocks and searched Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky areas near here.

House Report Criticizes Vet Home Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional investigators today reported some veterans are being cheated out of housing benefits by wide-spread graft, shoddy construction and favoritism.

A House Veterans Affairs subcommittee in issuing the report called for immediate tightening of regulations governing the Veterans Administration's home loan guarantee program.

The report was based on a 14-month subcommittee investigation of the VA program, builders and veterans using the program. Subcommittee members said they will introduce bills to carry out the report's recommendations.

The subcommittee criticized the Justice Department for its "inadequate" handling of cases referred to it by the VA, particularly cases involving the "illegal misuse" of veterans' housing rights "and overcharges on homes sold to veterans."

The congressmen reported many instances of builders buying from veterans their rights to the low-interest mortgages on houses. They said payments range from $300 to $400 in some areas to induce veterans to buy a house with no intention of living in it so the builder could obtain low-interest GI rates.

They also reported numerous cases of private inspectors hired by VA for a fee to inspect GI houses with a "conflict-of-interest" in the projects. They said often these fee inspectors have a direct financial interest in the property they inspect.

As a result, the subcommittee said, there are many cases of "inadequate and faulty inspections" of houses—a situation that provokes complaints from the veterans who buy them.

Chairman Gore Announces New Inquiry

Will Prepare Resolution for Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Elections subcommittee voted unanimously today to conduct a wide-ranging investigation of lobbying and campaign contributions.

The investigation grew out of the furor over a $2,500 campaign contribution offered to Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) by a gas company lobbyist during Senate debate on the natural gas bill. Case rejected the donation. Another Senate group and a federal grand jury already are investigating this incident to determine if it was an attempt to influence Case's vote.

Chairman Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) announced the broad new inquiry after a half-hour meeting of the elections subcommittee.

He said a resolution authorizing the investigation and providing a "sufficient" budget for it will be prepared for submission to the parent Senate Rules Committee. The Senate itself also would have to approve it.

Gore declined to say whether the proposal has received the approval of the Senate's Democratic leadership. But he said he expects "wide support" for the objectives of the inquiry.

George Opposes
Gore moved ahead with his plans while members of the select committee split sharply on whether they should broaden the Case inquiry to cover the same ground the Gore group was being asked to consider.

Such a step could raise a jurisdictional dispute between the elections subcommittee and the select committee headed by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) that only the full Senate could settle.

George, after a conference with Gore Wednesday, said he saw nothing "at this time" to warrant a broadened inquiry by his select committee. But Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), the George committee's top-ranking Republican, said the group should go beyond the Case affair and look into the "great deal of pressure" put on members of Congress by groups opposed to the gas bill.

Bridges mentioned utility and union "lobbies" as among such groups.

Bridges was the second GOP member of the select committee to call for an extended inquiry. Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) said earlier he favored looking into any and all contributions bearing on the gas bill.

George said the decision would be up to the Senate but that in any event he cannot serve on the special committee much beyond next week. He hopes the investigation of the Case incident can be wound up by then.

George said he did not think it mattered whether the broadened investigation is conducted by the special committee or one of the Senate's standing committees.

Complete Eye Testing in City Schools

A program to test the eyes of all children in the Harrisburg Public Schools has recently been completed through the cooperation of various medical groups, school officials and members of the PTA.

Wednesday at noon the PTA mothers and health officials were guests of the Harrisburg schools at a "thank you" luncheon at the Harrisburg Junior high school cafeteria. Eighteen were present.

The eye testing program started last fall when Miss Donnie Parkhill, field consultant, Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, came to Harrisburg on request. Miss Parkhill's visit to Harrisburg was approved by the School Health Medical Advisory committee and the Saline County Medical society.

While Miss Parkhill trained a selected group of PTA mothers to do Massachusetts vision testing. Twelve mothers were enlisted to participate in the program.

The mothers went by teams of two into each of the nine public schools and tested the eyes of approximately 1,550 pupils. The pupils who failed the test were referred to the school nurse who re-tested and recommended to the child's parents that the pupil be taken to an eye specialist for advice or refraction etc.

At the same time the Harrisburg Public Schools were engaged in a school wide Conservation of Vision program and the Egyptian Health department was directing a program throughout Saline county of a similar nature.

Fraises Co-Operation
In discussing the program Mrs. Ethel Mathias, school nurse, said "Harrisburg parents have been fine in cooperating by taking their children to the doctor of their choice. The doctor in turn made recommendations concerning glasses, seat placement, limited work, physical education and eye exercises."

A visual report for the doctor was designed for the school cumulative record and another for the school nurse to maintain in her office.

A committee made up of Dr. D. A. Lehman, Dr. John Slightom and Mrs. Mathias, have worked together regarding policies and procedures in conjunction with the local Medical society and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Others taking an active part in the program were PTA mothers Mesdames Coy Brown, J. W. Wintzler, John Stearns, Evadean Woodruff, James Gaskins, Elmer Holland, Victor Hall, Gene Humphrey, Trafton Dennis, Bert Gaskins, Paul Holland and Pearl Oglesby; Dr. James Wells, Mrs. Mabel Burton and Mrs. Vivian Kotner of the Egyptian Health department and Russell Malan, superintendent of the Harrisburg Public Schools.

Mrs. Mathias stated "Others too numerous to mention have made a fine contribution to the program by furnishing transportation, personal services, publicity and etc. The Harrisburg Public Schools are the stronger from health evaluation standards by having participated in the program."

Louisiana to Fight Ruling Against Segregation Laws

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana geared for action on two fronts today to fight a federal court ruling that the state's segregation laws are invalid.

A joint legislative committee of the Legislature announced in Baton Rouge that it would study new legislation to counter the ruling while school officials attack it in the courts.

The legislative committee had already been considering possible laws to safeguard segregation in private as well as public schools when the ruling was made here Wednesday.

The Orleans Parish school board, ordered by the court to end its segregation policy "with all deliberate speed," was expected to appeal.

C. P. Besse, board president, said that the board would take all "legal and honorable" means to combat the integration decree.

Benson Blames Wage Boosts for Farmers' Plight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson charged today that wage increases for labor were largely responsible for the cost-price squeeze on farmers.

Most of the wage increases for labor in the food industry, Benson said, were "paid for by ranchers and farmers—who paid it by taking lower prices for meat animals."

He also charged that more than half the wage increases for food processing and distribution since 1947 were unjustified.

Benson referred to "excessive wage increases as 'round after round of soft wage settlements'" in a speech prepared for delivery before the Western States Meat Packers Assn. He coupled the labor attack with praise and condemnation of the farm bill approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee. He approved the administration-backed soil bank plan contained in the bill but said he was "distracted" at the committee's vote to revive "90 per cent rigid, wartime emergency supports on basic commodities."

Farmers and ranchers, he said, "cannot pay whatever price may be quoted for equipment and supplies—or whatever wage rate, at whatever level, by whomsoever dictated, and pass on or pass back the cost to someone else."

Continue Pumping Into Reservoirs

Pumping into the standby reservoirs from Middle Fork creek continued today.

The 3,000 and 750 gallons per minute pumps were shut down at nine o'clock last night but the 1,500 gallon pump continued to operate through the night.

Probable plans this morning were to cut out the 14,500 gallon pump and to restart the two smaller ones, as the water receded.

Kazmayer Explains Causes of World Crises; Gives Picture of Europe

The underlying cause of the continuing crises in the world today, an inside picture of Europe, and America's position in the world today was outlined to members of the Southern Illinois Dinner club last night by Robert Kazmayer, an authority on world affairs. The dinner meeting was held at the Kurto Country club.

Mr. Kazmayer, an outstanding speaker, is a conductor of Kazmayer European tours and edits a news letter giving an analysis of world events. He had addressed the local club in 1951 and his return last night was an event to which many members of the club had anticipated favorably.

Cause of unrest in the world today was explained by Mr. Kazmayer as a three-fold revolution:

First a revolt by the have-nots against the "have" nations of the world, particularly against the white race;

New Government Philosophy

Second, a new philosophy of government has been gradually formed—a government promising to do more for the masses which previously had been left to individual initiative;

Third, the world has changed more in the past century than in the previous 30 centuries, and specifically has had the greatest change in the present generation.

These factors, plus the fact that the entire human family is increasing at a rapid pace which will probably double the present world population in the next 35 or 40 years, have brought about many changes in the world which were prevalent in our fathers' time.

Mr. Kazmayer also pointed out that of the great powers previously to World War II, only two super powers remain—the United States and Russia.

"Around these two powers most of the hopes, fears and loyalties

19-25 Group at Top of List to Be Called First

President Signs
Order to Scrap
Former System

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today that selective service will begin to draft younger men into the armed forces.

It made public an executive order, signed by President Eisenhower, scrapping the former system of taking the oldest draft-eligible men first and working down.

The new plan does not change the present 18 to 35 draft age limits. But it puts those in the age group of 25 down through 19, who are not fathers, at the top of the list to be called first. The oldest in the group would be called first.

A spokesman for selective service estimated there are about 1,347,000 young men in this bracket.

The second category of men to be called consists of those 25 down through 19 who are fathers. Again, the oldest will be called first in this category. There are 150,000 in this group.

The third group in order of call would be 26-year-olds and older regardless of whether they are fathers. There are about 160,000 of these. The youngest would be called first.

The fourth and last group would begin with the oldest 18-year-old regardless of his status as a parent, the order said. There are 210,000 of these.

The selective service spokesman said that fatherhood has not been a factor in determining classification into I-A, and will not be. However, deferments have been granted where hardship could be established.

Zeigler Man is Sentenced; Faces New Charges

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—A Zeigler man sentenced to prison Wednesday for armed robbery is scheduled to be arraigned on similar charges in Marion today.

Circuit Judge Charles Randall sentenced George Popham, 22, to 20 years in prison after Popham pleaded guilty to armed robbery. Popham drove the getaway car used by his 17-year-old wife, Shirley, after she robbed a Christopher jewelry store Jan. 24.

Mrs. Popham has been declared a delinquent and placed in custody of the Illinois Youth Commission.

Popham is accused of robbing a Marion jewelry store and a tavern in Colp last month. He will be arraigned in Marion today on one or both of the armed robbery indictments. He also was accused of robbing a West Frankfort jewelry store last month.

A friend of Popham, Willie Slechta, 22, Niobrara Neb., pleaded guilty Wednesday to being an accessory in the Christopher hold-up and was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in prison. He was with Popham when he drove the escape car for the Christopher holdup.

It's Finally Settled, That's Main Point in Natural Gas Fight

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The main point about the natural gas act amendment, exempting independent producers from price regulation by Federal Power Commission, is that it has at last been settled, after years of wrangling. Only time will tell whether it has been settled right or wrong. But you won't be hearing much about it any more, as Congress tackles other more important issues in the Eisenhower program. The dramatic preliminaries and sidesteps really eclipsed the major principle at stake in this gas battle. The lobbies of gas producing companies, fighting the lobbies of retail gas distributing companies, made it obvious from the first that millions of dollars were involved.

THE NAIVETE of the Nebraska citizen who tried to donate $2500 to Sen. Francis P. Case (R-S.D.) furnished an amazing touch. One of the first rules learned by all congressmen is that they can't take outside contributions from people outside their own state as a vote payoff. Experienced lobbyists know this, too, and don't even try it. The gas amendment divided the Senate down the line of states that are big gas producers and states populated principally by gas consumers in big domestic markets. There were exceptions, of course. Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), representing consumers, opposed the amendment. Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) inserted a statement in the back of the Congressional Record, favoring the amendment. Sen. Paul Douglas (R-Ill.) proved again that no matter how well-prepared or well-intentioned, a three-day speech changes no votes and is a waste of everybody's time.

BUT TO GET the real perspective on this natural gas battle, it's only necessary to review the similar, tidesland oil rights case. After a five-week floor fight in 1953, in which the future of the entire universe was made to appear at stake, Congress confirmed the coastal states' title to their offshore mineral rights, within their historic boundaries. The federal government was given title to what lay beyond. Once this was settled, the issue disappeared like magic. It has scarcely been heard of since. In the meantime, however, the federal government has held three sales of its rights, off Texas and Louisiana.

It has let 230 oil and gas leases and five leases for sulphur recovery rights. The first year's rentals paid to the federal treasury total 252 million dollars. It is interesting to observe here that President Eisenhower's aid to education proposal this year calls for grants to the states of 250 million dollars a year for five years. So if the proposal by Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) and others had been adopted—to use tidesland revenues for aid to education in all states—the money would be in hand to pay for it.

IN BOTH the natural gas act amendment and the tidesland oil case, the producing states have gotten just what they wanted. In the case of the natural gas act amendment, there have been arguments galore, both that it will result in higher prices to consumers, and that it won't. Nobody knows the answer to that one for sure.

But with the amendment passed, exempting independent producers from Federal Power Commission price regulations, the consuming public may have only the antitrust laws to fall back on for protection, in case prices go up. There is one slight indication of the way things may go. It has been noted that some New York stock brokers have already issued market letters advising investors which gas producing company stocks stand to gain the most from passage by Congress of this new amendment to the Natural Gas Act of 1938.

Plane Maker Says Profit Cut Will Slow Defense Effort

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major plane manufacturer told Congress today that a government move to cut profits on military orders would slow the defense effort. J. L. Atwood, president of North American Aviation, told a House Armed Services subcommittee that in the last nine years his firm has made a profit of only 3.32 per cent on its sales. Atwood was the lead-off witness in the subcommittee's investigation to determine whether plane manufacturers are reaping excessive profits on military orders. Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) promised that the group would reveal to the American people the "whole story" and strip away the "mystery" about profits. Atwood testified that his firm's profits on the basis of sales in the last nine years have been only about half the 6.4 per cent average made by U. S. manufacturers as a whole. It was learned that the subcommittee has asked the 15 major plane manufacturers such things as how much, if anything, they charge to government contracts for entertainment, travel and advertising, and how many retired military officers they employ and what their jobs are. Retired officers are barred by law from soliciting sales from the branch of service in which they served. It was learned that one manufacturer charged the government $1,600,000 "travel" on one contract in a period of less than two years.

Sentence Boy, 15, To 16 Years in Prison for Slaying

CHICAGO (AP)—A 15-year-old boy was convicted of murder today in the gang slaying of another teen-ager and sentenced to 16 years in state prison. Judge Thomas E. Kluczyński, who heard the case in Cook County Criminal Court without a jury, returned the verdict against Clement Cookie Macis and immediately fixed the sentence. Macis was found guilty of killing Kenneth Sieboda, 17, with a shotgun blast last May 1. Eight of Macis' companions pleaded guilty earlier to involuntary manslaughter.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

By Robert Martin

THE STORY: Alice Osborn has been killed, probably murdered, just after she signed permission for an autopsy on her late husband, Frank, who died six months before. James Bennett, an industrial commission investigator, found the body. His position in the case is to determine if Frank died from industrial causes. He is surprised to find a young woman, Lucy Dorn, apparently morbidly interested in the proposed autopsy.

XII

Lucy Dorn clicked the radio. I glanced at her. The dying sun slanting into the car made moving shadows on her face and I couldn't tell what was in her eyes, sadness or indifference. "Can I get some music?" she asked in a brittle voice.

"Please do."

She pressed three buttons before music came out. It was smooth, all muted brass and strings and the velvet beat of drums. She leaned back and closed her eyes.

The radio began to descend into the haze of the Steel City valley. The sun was down behind the hills now, but probably still shining on the flat plains of Ohio and Indiana, and the dusk came quickly. I switched on the car's headlights, made a sharp down-winding curve, braked gently and then fed gas as the ascent loomed above me. I said, "Do you have any suggestions?"

"About what?"

"About where to eat." I kept my eyes on the curved climbing road.

"There's a little place up ahead," she said. "The Buckeye Club it's called. I hear they have good sandwiches."

It was no better and no worse than a million other places, a long room, a bar, booths along the walls, tables and chairs in the center, a juke box and a small dance floor, the smell of beer and frying fat and tobacco smoke. There were a few men at the bar and some couples in the booths and at the tables. Two girls in big waitress uniforms hurried about with trays of drinks and food. We picked an empty booth near the bar.

One of the waitresses came up and gave us a bright smile. "Good evening, folks. What'll it be?"

"Two martinis what now," I told the girl. "We'll order later."

"Yes, sir." She moved her bright lips silently as she wrote on her pad. Then she smiled at us and walked briskly to the bar.

When the girl brought our drinks, we talked of a number of things: books, movies, the chances of the Cleveland Indians, and swimming. I noticed that she carefully avoided any mention of Dr. Jarrett or of the death of Alice Osborn. I knew that she was purposely avoiding the subject. Presently we ordered hot roast beef sandwiches, French fried potatoes and head lettuce salad. I paid the check, tipped the waitress, put on my hat and strolled to the juke box and idly glanced over the selections. Nearby I heard a thick voice say, "Nother drink, double."

I turned. Wilbur Tweed sat hunched over a glass in the last booth.

I moved over to the booth. "Hello, Wilbur."

He looked up at me, but it took him a couple of seconds to focus his slightly bulging pale blue eyes. Then he said, "Oh, it's you." He wore his black suit and the black tie was twisted sideways in the slot of his stiff white collar.

"How are you?" I asked, a silly question.

He lowered his head. "She's gone," he said in a voice so low that I barely heard him. "Alice is gone."

He looked up at me. There were tears in his eyes and his mouth quivered. "Why did he do that to me?" he asked brokenly.

"Do what? Who?" I asked him.

"Abner Cornwallis. Why didn't he call the mortician from Indian Landing?" He squeezed his eyes shut and clenched his long pale hands. "I—I'll never forget how she—she looked..."

He gazed at the empty glass and appeared not to have heard me. Lucy Dorn stood there gazing at Wilbur Tweed with something like pity in her eyes. She opened her mouth as if to speak to him, but I touched her arm and shook my head. Gently I tugged Lucy Dorn's arm and we went out into the cold summer evening.

In my car she said, "I've never seen Wilbur like that. All he ever drank was beer."

"He loved Alice Osborn," I said. "He was going to marry her. It was a shock to him when he saw her dead. We should have spared Wilbur, and called the other undertaker."

"It's hard to know what to do in a situation like that," she said. "Maybe Wilbur would have resented it if you hadn't called him."

She said, "I've always rather liked Wilbur. For years his sister has dominated him, mothered him. Not that I blame her. Nellie was once a friendly girl, but after Doyle Murdoch—he's the man she was engaged to—was killed, she changed and seemed to turn against the world. She devotes her life to Wilbur and the funeral home."

"Poor Wilbur," I said. "His one chance for marriage is gone, and now he's stuck forever with a sister with a mother complex. Did Nellie Tweed approve of Wilbur's marriage to Alice Osborn?"

"I'm not sure," she said slowly. "Wilbur's happiness is important to her, and I think she liked Alice. And Wilbur told me last week that she's consented to be a bridesmaid."

Mamie, Back in Busy Role, Acts Like A Woman Willing to Stay

By ALICIA HART

NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Mamie Eisenhower is acting like a woman who would be perfectly willing to spend another four years in the White House.

No one denies Ike's wife will happily settle down at the Gettysburg farm should he say, "No." But those close to her report she has a bright-eyed zest for the life she is now leading.

Mamie's radiant appearance and high spirits at several recent public functions seem to bear this out.

Friends emphatically put an end to all talk that she is fed up with her First Lady role and thinks of nothing but retiring with Ike to Gettysburg.

They further say she is leaving it up to the President to decide if he feels like another term.

This was pretty much confirmed when Ike said at a recent press conference that no member of his family objects to his running.

The Eisenhowers, however, have not held a family council on the matter, according to one who has known them for years. They just don't operate that way.

"As in all families, you can easily tell how those close to you feel about things," it is explained. "That's more or less how the President has judged his family's opinions."

On more than one occasion recently Mamie has quietly said that Fred "Pete" Phillips, former resident of Harrisburg for many years, was rushed to the hospital at Highland Park, Mich., last week after he collapsed from a heart attack. He is recuperating slowly and will be confined for three or four more weeks for treatment. Friends wishing to write to him may address him at the Highland Park General Hospital, Highland Park 3, Mich., Room 132.

Ken Price, HTHS senior who was a star lineman in football last fall, is confined to his home suffering from hemorrhaging from the nose.

The baby was born this morning and weighed six and three-quarters pounds but had not been named when the news arrived. Mr. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James of Detroit and the baby is the great-grandson of Mrs. Teresa James of Harrisburg and also of E. W. Irvin of RFD 3, Harrisburg.

Eisenhower Designates March Red Cross Month

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today designated March as Red Cross Month and urged all Americans to contribute liberally to the nationwide relief organization.

War-Surplus Transport Believed Piloted by Whitey Dahl is Missing

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—Canadian and U. S. planes spanned the Far North today hunting a war-surplus DC3 transport carrying three men and believed piloted by American soldier-of-fortune Harold E. (Whitey) Dahl.

An RCAF spokesman said "a man named Dahl" was flying and possibly owned the plane that was on a classified mission supplying equipment to the strategically important Defense Early Warning (DEW) radar line. The others on board were not immediately identified.

Veteran pilots at Mont Joli, in northern Quebec, and other points on the far-flung radar network said the only Dahl they knew of was "Whitey."

The missing twin-engine plane, one of a vast fleet flying supplies to radar bases under contract, was last reported on Tuesday when it left Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island for a 400-mile flight to Fort Chimo, Que. It never reached Fort Chimo. Dahl's exploits first made the headlines when he was a fighter pilot for the Loyalists during the Spanish Civil War. He was shot down, court-martialed in 1937 and ordered executed by a firing squad. Sends Picture to Franco

Then a woman entertainer in the United States sent a fetching picture of herself to Generalissimo Francisco Franco, saying she was Dahl's wife and offering to play the violin for Franco if he would let Dahl go free.

Dahl got his freedom, Franco never got his violin demonstration and it turned out the woman had staged the whole thing as a publicity stunt to promote her career in nightclubs.

During World War II at Belem, Brazil, he was a squadron leader in charge of the RAF base. He was court-martialed in Montreal, then headquarters of transport command, after spare parts disappeared from the base and turned up in the hands of a Belem junk dealer. He was acquitted after hearings that lasted several weeks.

The Dahl adventures opened their postwar chapter in Europe, where he was a pilot for Swissair. He was arrested in Paris, Dec. 5, 1953, with Etta Eppenger, a former Swiss airline hostess, and charged with stealing $34,335 worth of gold bullion from one of that company's planes.

Dahl, who listed his hometown as Sidney, Ill., where he was born in 1909, indignantly denied the charge and said his "sudden wealth" that led him on a Parisian spree resulted from an "unusual run of luck" at the Monte Carlo Casino and repayment by a friend of a $2,600 loan.

But that answer failed to impress agents of the international police organization. He was taken to Geneva, tried and sentenced to two years in prison and banishment from Switzerland for 10 years.

Late last year, Dahl drifted back to Canada to cash in on the need for pilots to fly urgently needed supplies to radar bases in the wilds.

Youth Leads Police On Wild Ride in Stolen Auto, Then Kills Self

MENDOTA, Ill. (AP)—A 19-year-old youth led police on a wild, 90-mile-an-hour chase today and then shot and killed himself when a shot-riddled tire sent his stolen car careening into a ditch.

Police said they found Floyd Breeding of Mendota semi-conscious and dying in a wrecked Cadillac alongside a gravel road three miles east and one mile south of Compton.

They said Breeding had shot himself in his right temple with a .22 caliber pistol. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Mendota Community Hospital.

Transport Firm Sues Cross For $19,200,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Paramelec Transportation Co. filed a $19,200,000 damage suit in Federal Court today against Hugh W. Cross, former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and six railroads.

Basis of the suit was the termination of the contract which Paramelec held for 102 years to transport passengers and baggage between Chicago's eight railroad stations. Last Sept. 15, the contract was awarded to the Railroad Transfer Service Inc., headed by John H. Keeshin.

According to the suit, Cross, former ICC chairman, conspired with Keeshin to persuade the presidents of four railroads that it would be to their personal benefit to transfer Paramelec from the transfer business. The conspiracy, it was alleged, was aimed at granting an exclusive five-year contract to Keeshin's firm, regardless of whether its proposed cost and terms were less favorable than could be obtained from free competition.

Cross resigned from his post as chairman of the ICC last Nov. 23, the suit charged, to avoid revealing terms of the conspiracy when he was called to testify about the matter before a Senate subcommittee.

Five Killed in Mines in January

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Nine accidents killed five men in January, the highest death toll since March, 1954, and caused 121 injuries, the State Mines and Minerals Department reported today.

Coal production for the month totaled 4,818,577 tons. The January production was 63,754 tons greater than for the same month in 1955, but 257,172 tons less than December tonnage.

The mines employed 12,131 miners, compared with 12,874 in December.

Maxwell Withdraws From Consideration To Court Vacancy

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The governor's office today released a copy of a letter from State Supreme Court Justice Ralph L. Maxwell of Nashville in which he moved himself from consideration for appointment to the vacancy on the Southern Illinois Federal District Court bench.

Maxwell wrote the letter to U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Pekin) after being included in the list of jurists under consideration for the appointment to the vacancy caused by the retirement of former U. S. District Judge Fred L. Wham.

Jury Returns Verdict Accused Slayer at Mt. Carmel Is Insane

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP)—A Wash County jury deliberated only 15 minutes Wednesday before returning a verdict that Lester Ayers, 47, accused of slaying a policeman, was insane.

Psychiatrists representing both the state and the defense testified to Ayers' insanity. He was ordered committed to the Illinois Security hospital at Chester.

Ayers was being tried for the Dec. 2 slaying of police officer Aaron Youngman.

Set Up Reserve Pool for War Time Executives

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower put in motion today the machinery for establishment of a nationwide pool of trained executives to be brought into government service in event of general mobilization.

The chief executive at his vacation headquarters here signed an executive order establishing the "National Defense Executive Reserve" to be administered by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Under the plan, Flemming will recruit a reserve of between 3,000 and 4,000 executives who—without their permission and that of their employers—will sign up for federal service in event of a national mobilization.

The executive reservists will not be compelled to serve, however, in the manner of military reservists, but can change their minds. As they become members of the reserve, they will agree to spend periodic intervals training for the government posts they may be called upon to fill.

In the case of a national mobilization, according to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, the reserve executive would be placed primarily in jobs of responsibility in ODM, plus the Defense, Commerce, Interior and Labor departments.

Traffic Light Makes Late Appearance

The stop-and-go light on the square was late in making its appearance this morning and many were wondering if the city had decided, or been told, to not use it.

The light is pulled each evening from the square to the city hall and the next morning is again pulled to the square. The police car with a trailer hitch is used to pull the light around.

This morning the police car was in a garage for repairs, Mayor Claude Gibbons stated, and the light couldn't be pulled into place until a vehicle with a trailer hitch was found. The light made its appearance on the square about 11 a. m.

Eisenhower Ejoys Quail Hunt During Pre-Decision Rest at Humphrey Estate

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower was out in the woods and broom sage fields of south Georgia early today in quest of wary quail that eluded him Wednesday on his arrival for a "pre-decision" rest.

Campaigning with a 410 light-weight shotgun, the President started hunting at 9 a. m. with his host at Milestone plantation, Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey.

Heavy rain and thunderstorms during the night threatened chances of hunting today, but during the morning the weather cleared and a bright sun shined on the hunt.

The President came to Humphrey's plantation Wednesday to rest for a week or 10 days before announcing whether he will run for a second four-year term in the White House. A medical check-up before his departure from Washington gave him the green light if he decides to make the race.

Mr. Eisenhower was so anxious to hunt his first such outing since his heart attack last Sept. 24—that 15 minutes after he arrived at the Humphrey estate from Washington Wednesday afternoon, he had changed from his brown business suit into hunting clothes and was ready to go with his 410-gauge shotgun.

He and Humphrey climbed into a hunting "roadster," a four-wheeled vehicle drawn by two white mules and with room for the hunters sitting on leather-covered seats atop a compartment for bird dogs and drove for two hours in search for quail.

What had been a bright, sunny day turned into an overcast late in the afternoon. Experts said the wind was from the wrong direction. The President and Humphrey had two shots at quail that whirled into the air suddenly from nearby thickets, but they missed.

Mr. Eisenhower has plenty of other recreational possibilities if his quail hunt continues to be poor. He brought his paints and easel with him, plus his bag of golf clubs. Within a few days, he may try two or three holes of golf at the Glen Arden Country Club outside Thomasville.

Friendly crowds greeted the President and Mrs. Eisenhower almost the entire 43 miles from Spence Air Force Base to the plantation and he responded frequently by getting to his feet and waving with one arm, then the other to the people cheering him. His manner of receiving applause was distinctly reminiscent of his behavior in the 1952 campaign, although his movements Wednesday might not have been quite as active.

Marines Face Defeat in Simulated Attack on Iwo Jima

IWO JIMA (AP)—A U. S. "invasion fleet" carrying 11,000 Marines is leaping toward this historic island today in preparation for a simulated atomic age attack Friday which is foredoomed to defeat.

Carrier-based jets and the big guns of the cruisers Toledo, Columbus and Helena opened the war game with a flaming bombardment of Moko Jima, a tiny desert island for the exercise.

Marines of the 3rd Division will splash ashore Friday in the main event of the maneuvers. The planners of the exercise have decided already that the Marines are to be "defeated" for the first time in history.

Returns from Funeral Of John W. Drury, Former Resident

Sylvester Thorne has returned home from attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, John William Drury, 57, who died on Jan. 9 at his home on RFD 2, Benton Harbor, Mich. Mr. Drury, who had been in poor health for 20 years, was a former resident of this city where he had been a coal miner in his earlier years.

Mr. Drury had lived at 700 West Logan street and married the former Georgia Thorne on Sept. 17, 1921, who survives.

Also surviving are a son, Archie L. Drury of Schiller Park, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Raymond Jenkins, Iron River, Mich., and Mrs. William Gwaltney of Chicago; a brother, Jesse Drury, Marion, Ill., and three sisters, Mrs. Billy Lemay, Dale, Mrs. Louis Lehotte, Marion, and Mrs. Carl Vinnio, Chicago. Twelve grandchildren also survive.

Special Hazardous Driving Warning For Central Illinois

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Weather Bureau today issued a special hazardous driving warning for central Indiana and central Illinois.

The Weather Bureau said light freezing drizzle or rain would cause slippery road conditions in the central portions of the two states. The warning said the area of freezing precipitation would extend from approximately north of a line from St. Louis to Cincinnati, Ark.

Cold, Snow Hits Northwest, Floods in South

By United Press
An icy snow storm marooned families in the Pacific Northwest today and flooding rains pounded the Southland.

The Northwest cold and snows closed schools and blocked roads in eastern Washington's Douglas and Okanogan counties. Many Douglas county families, marooned for four days by drifted roads, were reported running low on food and fuel.

Temperatures plunged to 20 degrees below zero in the snowbound area and forecasters could see no immediate warmup.

Temperatures were balmy in the Southland, but they teamed up with torrential rains which triggered flash floods at New Orleans, La., and Hot Springs, Ark.

The water lapped over street curbs at New Orleans, where more than 3 inches of rain pounded down in two hours Wednesday. Backwaters forced the water into stores and water was 6 inches deep in front yards in a three-parish southern Louisiana area.

The worst flood in 33 years sent water running 4 feet deep down Hot Springs' Central Avenue. A woman was swept to her death from the top of her car, flood waters crashed through store windows, and damages were estimated at least $250,000.

Lakers, Warriors Win Pro Tilts

By United Press
The Minneapolis Lakers, early-season disappointments in the National Basketball Assn., moved today to within one game of second place in the three-cornered battle for a playoff spot in the Western Division.

The Lakers crept up on the idle Rochester Royals Wednesday night when they defeated the New York Knickerbockers, 113-102, at St. Paul, Minn., despite a 31-point performance by Carl Braun. Six Lakers scored in double figures, including Clyde Lovellette, who registered 20 points and George Mikan, who tallied 13.

Paul Arizin's 25 points sparked the Philadelphia Warriors to a 100-78 rout of the Fort Wayne Pistons at Miami Beach, Fla., in the other game Wednesday night. The Warriors built a 43-36 halftime bulge and never were threatened in a game that Fort Wayne Coach Charley Eckman called the "Pistons' worst performance of the season."

Bull Dogs Play Strong Herrin Tigers Friday; Eldorado Here Saturday

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs travel to Herrin tomorrow night and face the powerful Tigers, who are fighting it out with Mt. Vernon for the South Seven conference basketball crown.

Then Saturday night they play Eldorado. Although this is Eldorado's "home game," it will be played in Davenport, Iowa, because of inadequate seating facilities at Eldorado. Eldorado and Harrisburg have split in two previous games, Eldorado winning the first in two overtimes and Harrisburg copping the second during the Saline county tournament.

Herrin, which is 7-1 in the South Seven; currently is the No. 2 team of the state in the Associated Press poll and No. 3 in the poll conducted by the United Press. That shows the power of the Friday night opponent. Herrin defeated the locals here in the first game of the season.

Another conference game Friday night is Benton at Centralia with Marion tackling Johnston City in a non-loop tilt. There are two South Seven games Saturday night and one is the big one—Mt. Vernon at Herrin with the championship probably being settled right then and there. The other is Benton at West Frankfort. Centralia plays Salem in a non-conference tilt, and Marion is at Sparta.

Other Friday night games are: Galatia at Shawneetown, Carrier Mills at Morris City, McLeansboro at Eldorado.

Four-School Conference Is Organized

A four-school high school conference was organized last night at Eldorado.

High schools joining in a yet unnamed conference are Eldorado, Johnston City, Metropolis and McLeansboro.

The conference will be named in about two weeks, it was learned, as students of all four schools will participate in the selection of a name.

Principals and coaches of all four schools were present last night and Maurice Clark, principal of Metropolis high school, was elected president. Rules adopted last night specify the president must be a school principal.

Elected vice president was Al Adams, Eldorado high school athletic director. Leftey Seville, McLeansboro football coach, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Adams today said that the first conference engagement will be a conference track and field meet to be held at McLeansboro the Friday evening preceding the district track meets.

The basketball schedule has been set up to start next year. Although all teams will not meet twice this first season, the conference champion will be determined by use of a point system.

The conference football schedule will not be put into operation until the fall of 1957, with all teams meeting each other that year.

Rules specify that all schools must participate in both football and basketball, but can choose between track and baseball. No conference baseball schedule has been attempted as yet.

Adams said that although the conference will deal with athletics at the outset, it is set up for competition in music and forensic activities.

Nine TV Stations To Telecast State Tourney Games

CHICAGO — An estimated 2½ million viewers are expected to watch the televised semifinal and final games of the Illinois prep basketball tournament March 17, the Illinois High School Assn. said today.

Nine TV stations across the state will carry the games. They are WKBK, Chicago; WDAY-TV, Danville; WTVP, Decatur; WDEM-TV, Quincy; WTVO, Rockford; WBBF-TV, Rock Island; WCIA, Champaign; WEEK-TV, Peoria and WICS, Springfield.

WCIA, Champaign, and WKBK-TV, Peoria, will also carry the quarter-final games on March 16. Chick Hearn of Peoria and Jack Drees of Chicago will announce the contests.

North Carolina Edges Wake Forest in Near Riot; SMU Outstalls Texas Christian

By United Press
A near-riot in Chapel Hill, N. C., and a fantastic "slowdown" game in Fort Worth gave evidence of rapidly mounting tension in college basketball today as the conference races hit the homestretch.

Fists were swung by players and hundreds of fans in the closing minute of Wednesday night's thriller at Chapel Hill as North Carolina edged out a 77-73 triumph over Wake Forest to seize undisputed first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

And pennies were pitched on the Fort Worth court as Southern Methodist outstalled Texas Christian, 26-22, to retain a 1-1-2 game lead in the Southwest conference.

North Carolina broke out of a three-way tie with Wake Forest and North Carolina State by this victory, but the Tar Heels didn't take command of the game until the closing seconds. The score had been tied 19 times and the lead had changed hands 14 times until Lennie Rosenbluth's basket with two minutes left put North Carolina ahead, to stay, 76-69. At the final whistle, Jerry Vayda of the Tar Heels and Jim Gilley of the Deacons collided and started swarming.

Fans Join Slugfest
Players and fans swarmed onto the court and began slugging and scuffling. Police and the coaches restored order quickly and, when the smoke cleared, Rosenbluth had scoring honors with 33 points.

At Fort Worth, Texas Christian Coach Byron Brannon sent his team on the court with orders to pass the ball at least 25 times before each shot. SMU, ranked No. 8 nationally by the United Press Board of Coaches, met stall with stall and the result was a half-time score of 12-11 in favor of TCU. Southern Methodist was leading, 25-20, with two minutes when Texas Christian suddenly started running in an effort for a wild finish. But the Frogs missed all their hurried shots and SMU moved its perfect league record to 8-0.

Exciting But Normal
Things were exciting, but more normal, at Peoria, Ill., where St. Louis downed Bradley, 73-62, to tie the Houston for first place in the Missouri Valley Conference. The Bills rallied from an early 10-point deficit to win.

St. Francis of Brooklyn, ranking with San Francisco as the only major-league unbeaten teams in the nation, extended its record to 18-0 with a 94-74 rout of Brooklyn College. The Terriers now are only three games from a perfect season before they go into the National Invitation Tournament.

Statistics Show Why Illinois Leads Big Ten

CHICAGO — Big Ten statistics showed today why Illinois, unbeaten in eight conference games, was leading the league basketball chase.

The Illini led the loop in scoring, 83 points per game, and in field goal and free throw accuracy, and were third on defense. In addition the club boasts three of the top 10 scorers, George BonSalle, Billy Ridley and Paul Judson.

The Illini have allowed opponents 74.1 points per game, a mark bettered only by Iowa with a 68-point average and Purdue with 70.7. Illinois has hit from the floor at 49.1 and on free throws at 79.1. Both the average score and the free throw accuracy figure were better than the conference record for the season.

Robin Freeman of Ohio State continued to lead the individual scorers, but his average slipped slightly to 31.1 points per game after Illinois held him to 12 points Saturday. Michigan State's Julius McCoy remained second with a 29.5 mark.

Wally Choice of Indiana made the biggest gain in scoring, jumping from seventh to fourth place with a 20.7 average. He also led the league in field goal accuracy with a .527 average. The most accurate shooter from the floor this season will be awarded the Jack Prowell Trophy, named for the late sports editor of the Champaign (Ill.) News-Gazette.

Begin Arrests of Motorists Without '56 License Plates

SPRINGFIELD — Police today started arresting motorists who have failed to get their 1956 license plates.

Acting State Police Chief William B. Morris said orders have been issued to hand out tickets to drivers of cars still bearing 1955 plates.

He said motorists who have bought 1956 plates but still have old plates on their cars may be stopped and ordered to attach the new plates on the spot.

It will be at the discretion of police officers, Morris said, either to stop such motorists and require them to attach their new plates immediately or to issue an arrest ticket calling for a fine.

Secretary of State Charles E. Carpenter said about 7,000 persons bought plates over-the-counter at the Capitol Wednesday, the deadline for obtaining new plates.

Bruises On Court Don't Affect Cage Play of 'Lefty' Davis at Wake Forest

RALEIGH, N. C. — "Lefty" Davis of Wake Forest owns the reputation of being the most banged-up basketball player in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference.

(Davis is a former Johnston City high school star well-known to local fans three to five years ago, as he participated against the Harrisburg Bull Dogs both in basketball and baseball. He was a top southpaw pitcher in the area.)

His other reputations include probably the skinniest player in the ACC's roster of starting line-ups, one of its most durable competitors, one of its highest scorers and one of its most highly regarded athletes.

It's no act that Lefty puts on, but somehow the six-foot, two-inch forward always takes a tumble or two during a game. It always brings a collective gasp from the crowd. The Wake Forest bench leaps up.

THE FANS shudder, awaiting the expected splintering sound of the collision of Lefty's bones and the hardwood.

"It doesn't seem to hurt," says Davis. "I always seem to fall just right." The secret is that Davis takes a spill with perfect balance.

Except for some bruises, the 152 pounds, spread sparsely on the long, thin frame, are undamaged.

Despite the bangups, Davis is on the bench as little as any regular in the conference.

WAKE FOREST Coach Murray Greason admits that "when I first saw Davis I thought he should be in the infirmary instead of on a basketball court."

That was before Greason saw evidence of Lefty's endurance, balance and timing and his uncanny jump shot.

He doesn't look like one, he isn't heavy enough to knock you down, but otherwise he can do anything the pros can do," says Horace "Bones" McKinney, Wake Forest's top assistant and a bony old pro himself. He's just marvelous.

IN WAKE FOREST basketball, the stringbean from Johnston City, Ill., played two years in the shadow of Wake's brawny star center Dickie Hemric.

But he was an unsung star. As a sophomore, he scored 505 points for a 17.4 per game average. Last year he pumped in 521 points for a 19.3 point per game average.

So far this year, as captain of the Deacons, he has scored 425 points and has an average of better than 21 points per game. It has been Davis' work that is largely responsible for putting Wake Forest in the thick of the ACC title picture.

Charge Two Brothers With Attempt to Murder Student in Reprisal for Riots

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Authorities charged two Negro brothers Wednesday night with attempting to murder a University of Alabama student in reprisal for the "Autherine Lucy" riots.

The Negroes, John and Arthur Washington, both in their 20s, allegedly beat Samuel P. Taylor, 19, slightly built engineering student, two nights ago.

Circuit Solicitor Olin Zeanah said charges against the brothers were changed from assault and battery and disorderly conduct, to attempted murder after investigation of the case Wednesday.

Deputy Solicitor Fred Nichol said the charge carries a sentence of from two to 20 years in prison.

The brothers were moved secretly from the jail here to Eutaw, 14 miles from Tuscaloosa, after the new charges were filed. Police Chief W. C. Tompkins refused to comment on the move. He said a third Negro, Jimmy Hall, was held as a material witness.

Taylor said he was held by one of the Negroes while he was beaten and kicked, and was bruised and shaken by the alleged attack.

Charges were filed against the Negroes on the eve of two scheduled meetings of the entire student body and faculty called by Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president, to discuss the dismissal of Miss Lucy from the school.

Miss Lucy was excluded from further classes because of three days of rioting in which attempts were made to stone her. A federal court hearing on her demand for readmission to the campus is set for Feb. 29.

Kazmayer Explains Causes of Crises

the better things of life and they in turn demand their government supply it, Mr. Kazmayer said.

The mounting pressures of the people of the have-not nations bring on the crisis which continually arise, he said.

In his picture of Europe, Mr. Kazmayer stated Germany is rapidly approaching a dominant status and beginning to regain world markets. The Germans have a fanatical desire for a united Germany and a renewal of East-West trade, he said.

No Danger of All-Out War

As for Britain, he said, we should see that our interests and theirs are not always the same. We are taking ever more and more obligations of the British, but while Britain made peace the world pay, the United States pays for the privilege of policing the world.

Russia is always a question mark, Mr. Kazmayer said, but his opinion was that Russia will continue to do as it has done in the past and take advantage of all crises while keeping away from danger of all-out war.

Actually, he said, Russia should be more afraid of the U. S. than we should be afraid of Russia. He pointed out that Russia is encircled with hundreds of jet bases, and while a sneak attack would hurt us, it would have to be followed up with attacks on all those bases where our bombers are ready at a moment's notice for a retaliatory attack.

"As long as we are externally strong and internally sound, we will have peace," Mr. Kazmayer stated.

We must learn to take these crises in stride, he said, adding that we must learn there are a lot of things we cannot do much about, such as pouring money into France—a very uncertain ally. "You can't help people with money unless they learn to help themselves," he said.

Advise Middle Course

Sending troops abroad does no good, either, he said, unless people learn to fight for themselves.

"Beware of going the road of France, Italy or Britain," Mr. Kazmayer urged. "They have been held together with a Marshall plan, but there will be no Marshall plan for our children if this nation goes bankrupt," he said.

He advised a middle course with our greatest problem keeping the faith of our fathers in the Brotherhood of man.

The Communists have a fanatical faith in fighting for what they want, he said. You can't fight a faith or religion, even evil, when you have no faith or religion or a vision of your own," Mr. Kazmayer said.

Sebe Kelly, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Judge L. M. Hancock and invocation was given by T. Leo Dodd of Eldorado.

Mr. Kelly announced the next meeting will be held Thursday night, March 22, at which time Don Applegate, NBC correspondent who was captured by the Chinese Reds, will be the guest speaker.

110 Killed in Clashes in French North Africa

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—French North Africa seethed with unrest today in the wake of a day of clashes in which reports said at least 110 persons were killed. The 24-hour death toll was one of the highest since violence first erupted in the territories.

The reports said an additional 51 persons were wounded in the clashes between French security forces and rebel bands in Algeria and Morocco, and between rival native political factions in Tunisia.

The biggest action took place in Algeria where a band of more than 150 "army of Allah" rebels engaged a heavy detachment of security forces in an eight-hour battle in the Nemencha Mountains, 96 miles south of Constantine.

The French said at least 42 rebels were killed in what they described as a "major" action. French losses were eight dead and 20 wounded.

Gray Advised Eisenhower Has Received 'Sink or Swim' Report

Congressman Kenneth J. Gray (D) West Frankfort, representing the Twenty-Fifth District of Illinois, today announced that he had just received word from the White House that President Eisenhower had received a full report on the "Sink or Swim" rally held at West Frankfort on Dec. 31.

Hodge Explains Why 2,385 More On State Payroll

SPRINGFIELD (U)—State Auditor Orville E. Hodge today released an analysis of state payroll figures to explain the "primary causes" of an increase of 2,385 employees in the first biennium of the Republican administration.

Hodge said new duties imposed by the Legislature, the creation of new state agencies and the growth of colleges and universities accounted for the increase.

He pointed out that 979 of the total employment increase in the biennium period — July, 1953, to July, 1955 — was at the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University and four state colleges.

Another 310 employees were added in the secretary of state's office, where Hodge said the secretary had these new duties: Administration of a driver's license law, providing county clerks with lists of automobile registrations, and a mileage tax for trucks. He said the number of motor vehicles had greatly increased, also.

Hodge said 237 of the 451 new public welfare employees were hired as a result of the 40-hour week in state hospitals and other institutions. He said the other employees added are mostly those in work financed by the new mental health fund.

Hodge said the 234 employees added to the Public Works and Buildings Department were needed to carry out an expanded road and building program. He said the Department of Public Health needed its added 223 employees to staff the Chicago Tuberculosis Sanatorium and license and inspect trailer parks, a new duty.

He said the Department of Labor's payroll increase of 168 persons was hinged to the increased work load in unemployment compensation and state employment service.

Hodge pointed out that since taking office he has made monthly employment reports and kept all state employment records open to the newspapers and the public. He said this policy would continue.

on Dec. 31 was presented to the President by the Federal representatives who were in attendance. Mr. Adams said that "the President had studied the reports very carefully and that the problems of southern Illinois and other communities which unfortunately had not enjoyed the nation's general prosperity, have been very much on the President's mind."

The President asked Mr. Adams to inform Congressman Gray that in his 1956 State of the Union message, he stressed the need for augmented Federal assistance for these areas and called attention to the major study he had authorized to develop a Federal partnership program of assistance to local areas of persistent unemployment. The President said that as a result of the need for Federal legislation to deal with economically depressed areas, the administration has drafted legislation that is embodied in Senate Bill 2892. Mr. Adams said that "We are hopeful that this legislation will be enacted and feel that it will be of real assistance to areas such as southern Illinois."

Gray said the bill to which the President refers would provide 50 million dollars in a revolving fund to be made available for loans to prospective industries moving into distressed areas, but would not provide any public works improvement projects. Gray said the bill was "inadequate" to cope with the great unemployment problem of distressed areas. He compared the bill with the bill introduced by Senator Paul H. Douglas known as S. 2663, and his own bill, H. R. 7902, which would provide 100 million dollars for government loans to private industries moving into distressed areas and also 100 million dollars for public works improvement projects. Gray said it would take a bill of the magnitude of that he and Senator Douglas had introduced if the areas of unemployment are to receive the help that is needed.

Gray said that many needed public works projects are dependent on the passage of some type of distressed areas bill. He said that such legislation would be the best means of completing some much needed public works improvement projects, including a series of lakes such as the proposed Rend Lake in Franklin county.

Gray said that the individual projects needed in each community of southern Illinois will be held in readiness to be presented to a distressed areas administrator, should he be intended to see that each community in southern Illinois receives its fair share of assistance.

The six largest lakes within Minnesota's borders are Red Lake, Leech Lake, Mille Lacs, Winnibegoshish, Vermillion and Pokegama.

DR. EDWARD M. FLANIGAN, who began his ministry at Equality and who is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Moore of that city, was honored recently at Irwin, Pa., where he is pastor of the First Presbyterian church, getting a desk set from his congregation following a service commemorating the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the ministry. Pictured (left to right) are his son, Jerry; his daughter, Sharon; his wife, Tess, and her father, Mr. Moore of Equality; Dr. Flanagan, Dr. Hugh I. Evans, principal speaker at the service, and the Rev. Lloyd Homer, moderator of the Blairsville Presbytery.

Forgotten Drugs Should Go Into Discard

BUFFALO, N. Y. (U)—Seeing isn't believing where unidentified drugs are concerned, but it can't be trusted unless the name is known positively.

Many a patient has gulped tablets from an unlabeled bottle only to find out he has swallowed the wrong medication. Consequences can be serious, even fatal, warn chemists of the Arner Co., drug makers.

Rarely can a patient, or even a doctor, tell what a medication contains simply by looking at it. Once the original use has been forgotten, unidentified drugs should be thrown away. All unmarked drug bottles and containers should be cleaned out of medicine cabinets at least once a year.

Bordon Store

Forty-two people made the trip by bus leaving from Harrisburg recently to attend the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn. The program was sponsored by the Bordon feed store were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Puckett, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Malone and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bordon. They also visited The Hermitage.

Bill, Donald, Charles, and Herman Puckett left Tuesday morning for Bloomington, Ill., to visit their brother and sister-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Puckett. En route home they stopped in Peoria and visited with their uncle, Herman Puckett.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Steffe of Calhoun visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Logan Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lange of St. Louis, Mo., are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. James Allen and Donna.

Former Equality Minister, Son-in-Law Of A. K. Moore, Honored at Irwin, Pa.

A minister who began his preaching at Equality 25 years ago and who married an Equality girl while in the ministry there was honored last week at Irwin, Pa.

He is Dr. Edward M. Flanagan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Irwin, who started his ministry at the First Presbyterian church at Equality. His wife, Tess, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Moore.

Mr. Moore, Equality funeral director, attended the service at Irwin commemorating Dr. Flanagan's 25th anniversary in the ministry.

Jerry, son of Dr. and Mrs. Flanagan who is a senior at Princeton Theological seminary, was home for the occasion and participated in the service by reading the scripture.

Festival of Fine Arts Opens at SIU Feb. 26; Campus Exhibit of Paintings

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Southern Illinois university is preparing to serve students and visitors the most concentrated program of cultural entertainment in the 82 year history of the school.

With the opening of a campus exhibit of 19th and 20th century paintings on Sunday (Feb. 26), SIU's School of Fine Arts will present its first annual Festival of Fine Arts, two weeks of lectures, recitals, concerts, dance and drama presentations built around the theme, "Form in the Creative Arts."

The exhibition of paintings, tracing the development of form from 19th century French romanticism ture and making the intercessory prayer.

A reception followed the anniversary service at which the pastor and family greeted their friends in a receiving line.

A gift of a handsome desk set and lamp was made to Dr. Flanagan by Thomas Hook, president of the board of trustees in behalf of the congregation.

The church gave 25 roses and a rose corsage to Mrs. Flanagan. The Moundsville, Pa., church, a former charge of Dr. Flanagan, presented him with a check for $50, and the pastor received numerous other gifts from individuals including a wrist watch and a silver cigar lighter.

At the service a message was read by Charles H. Guard, clerk of the session of the Equality Presbyterian church.

From then until March 10, festival-goers will see and hear an abundance of talent in performances embracing all the arts. Among the artists imported for the festival will be the Canadian Players of Stratford, Ont., in their starkly modern production of Shaw's "Saint Joan"; harpsichordist Fernando Valenti in two lecture-recital sessions, one of them on the "Keyboard Music of Domenico Scarlatti"; Jose Limon and Dance Company with Pauline Koner in a master dance lesson and a production, "Theater in the Dance," and the Walden String Quartet in a concert of contemporary music, including a first performance of Alvin Etler's "Quartet (1955)."

Other highlights of the festival will include a recital of contemporary music by Southern's University Woodwind Quintet; a performance of Gabriel Faure's "Requiem Mass" by the University Chorus and Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Maurice Kessler; SIU University Opera Workshop productions of Henry's Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas" and Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley"; and a concert by the University Concert band.

Participating in lectures and symposia will be John Walley, designer and educator at the University of Illinois; Maurice Lasansky, printmaking expert from the University of Iowa; Eric Salmon, county drama adviser, Shropshire, England; Valenti, and Robert Palmer, modern American composer.

Also scheduled for active roles in the discussion series are Ben Watkins, Frederick Lauritzen, Moise Smith, Robert McMillan, Elliott Elgart, Harold Cohen, Leonard Kitts, Harold C. Schwarm and F. Carlton Ball of the SIU art department. Dr. Robert Fanner, professor of English at SIU, will discuss "The Place of Form in Recent Poetry," and Dr. Burnett Shryock, dean of the School of Fine Arts, will give an illustrated lecture, "18th Century Impressionism and Post Impressionism."

First performance of the packed festival schedule will be a Monday morning (Feb. 27) recital by the University Woodwind Quintet at Shryock Auditorium. Southern's president, Delyte W. Morris, will officially open the festival with an address that evening at University School Auditorium. Dean Shryock will preside at the ceremony, beginning at 7 p. m., and a film classic, "Nanook of the North," will be presented following Morris' address.

The exhibition, which will hang throughout the festival, includes 18 paintings from John Constable's early 19th century "Square Towered Church," from the New York Metropolitan Museum, to modernist works by Paul Klee, Juan Miro and Robert Delaunay.

Although some of the lectures are designed primarily for art and music students, all festival performances will be open to the public.

Babe Ruth not only set the major league record for 60 home runs in 1927, but he also hit more than 50 four-baggers three other years — 54 in 1920, 59 in 1921 and 54 in 1928.

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
Steel is the great underpinning of the American economy. When the steel industry plans—as it has —the biggest expansion program in its history, the signals are up for new peaks of national growth in the years just ahead.

In recent decades we have entered the Age of Light Metals and the Age of Plastics. But through all this we have never left the Age of Steel, nor are we likely to. Aside from the sources of power, steel is the most fundamental substance of our industrial civilization.

Thus it is no accident that the steel companies, watching the rising curves of U. S. population and general industrial output, are now projecting the addition of some 15 million tons to the nation's steel producing capacity.

The increase will come at the rate of about five million tons a year, a new high in expansion. The average for the first 10 postwar years was about 3.5 million tons added to capacity each year.

And it should have occasioned no surprise that on the very day the American Iron and Steel Institute made this announcement through Benjamin Fairless, its president, General Motors disclosed that it plans to spend one billion dollars this year for expansion. It was in effect perfectly timed confirmation of the steel industry's judgment that the immediate future is bright.

We hardly need be reminded that the automotive industry consumes about 20 per cent of all the steel made.

Obviously this is a hopeful story that deserves to be spelled out in much more than the cold terms of tonnage figures and dollar expansion. What happens in these basic fields means a great deal to ordinary Americans everywhere.

In an article reviewing the meaning of this expansion, the magazine Steelways shows what its impact has been on just one group—the hundreds of thousands who make the steel that serves so many millions of others.

Since 1945, the steelworker's average hourly earnings have climbed from $1.18 to $2.46. He averages around $103 a week today, and in addition he gets paid holidays, insurance, and a pension. With this increased purchasing power—double what he could command 20 years ago—the steelworker can buy all kinds of things he viewed as luxuries before.

Like as not he has a car and a house full of appliances made from the very material he helps to manufacture. The expansion of his industry has brought with it notable expansion in his personal standard of living. As Steelways points out, today's steelworker enjoys better living than many a plant owner 50 years ago.

This is what the cold statistics of industrial expansion are really all about. They translate remarkably into the warm, typically American story of steady human betterment.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Senator Gore Should Be Forthright Lobby Prober; Congressman Gary Worries About Televising Of Moonshine
Raids; Franco Has Problems
In Spain.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat, picked to carry on the gas lobby probe, is a young senator of impeccable integrity who stood up against Senator Lyndon Johnson in backstage discussions of the gas lobby. Gore insisted the whole gas lobby investigation should be broadened.

When Senator Hennings (D., Mo.) was called to Johnson's office to persuade him to side-step the Case investigation—Gore went with him—at Hennings' request.

As the hour of two p. m. approached, Gore and Hennings were still closeted with Johnson and Johnson was still arguing that the regular Elections committee, of which both Hennings and Gore were members, should not investigate. Finally Gore became impatient.

"Let's go," he told Hennings,
"it's after two p. m. and Senator Case was scheduled to meet with us at two."

"Go ahead," shot back Johnson, "I didn't invite you here."

Gore and Mansfield of Montana will be the two Democrats on the regular Elections committee. They can be depended upon to do a good job. Curtis of Nebraska, the Republican member, has thrown every possible roadblock in the path of any broadened investigation.

MOONSHINE RAID

Some residents of the nation's capital, especially the lobbyists, have long wished the most terrible fate known to man on me. They would not object to my being boiled in oil—even Superior Oil—or being shoved off the top of the Washington monument — just accidentally.

I am indebted to the House Appropriations committee, therefore, for concern about my physical safety.

Some weeks ago, I accompanied alcohol tax unit agents on the raid of a moonshine still near Roanoke, Va. Except for a near case of frostbite, I encountered no grave dangers during the raid, and later portrayed on television the gunpoint arrest of the moonshiners.
They turned out to be rather friendly fellows, however, and even consented to be interviewed on television.

But the other day, Representative J. Vaughan Gary of Virginia voiced alarm over my part in the drama. He was questioning Secretary of the Treasury George M.
Humphrey behind closed doors.

"The committee was rather surprised to hear on the radio and in the press that a newspaper reporter and photographer had accompanied one of the raids of the alcohol tax unit of your department," declared Representative Gary gravely.

"It is entirely possible that a person accompanying a raiding party of that kind could be seriously injured and . . . present a question as to whether the government should compensate that person for his injuries."

Secretary Humphrey said that he wasn't personally acquainted with the case, but Representative Gary pressed him.

"I am just questioning the propriety of a raiding party going out to raid stills, which we all admit is a very hazardous undertaking, carrying along with them reporters and photographers."

"I do not know, Mr. Chairman," replied Humphrey after some thought.

"I do know from watching the television that in some of the shows newspaper reporters unearth a lot of facts. I do not know any more than you do about this, but . . . I should think there should be a good reason for it if they accompany a raiding party."

"If there is a good reason," insisted Gary, "we ought to know about it."

Humphrey promised to "check into it."

"I would kind of like to go myself," he added wistfully.

COMMUNISM IN SPAIN
Behind the riot-headlines from Spain are some disturbing facts that indicate our billion dollar investment in Dictator Franco, made at the urging of Franco's $75,000 a year lobbyist, Charles Patrick Clark, rests on shaky ground.

Here are the highlights of the pessimistic intelligence from Spain:

1. Franco is getting old and tired.

2. The Franco bloc is gradually disintegrating. It's split with bitter internal quarrels between the monarchists, the Falange youth, and various business groups.

3. There is uneasiness among workers, open revolt among students, a general weariness after 17 years of dictatorship.

The big Spanish problem, as in all dictatorships, is who will replace the dictator when he goes?
A democracy is geared to take changes in its stride, but not a dictatorship. A Spanish monarchy would get nowhere. There would be immediate revolt. A change from Franco to some military leaders such as General Munoz Grande or General Garcia Valino would only align two rival army groups against each other.

FLIRTING WITH MOSCOW
But the most serious problem is Spanish flirtation with Russia at the top and a drift toward communism at the bottom.

The Franco government has nothing in common with the democracies except getting American dollars to bolster its regime. But Franco does have something in common with Russia — upsetting the French in North Africa and expanding Spanish domination in that rich area.

For years Franco has been stirring up the Arabs against the French. Now Russia is doing the same; so Franco is comparing notes with Moscow in regard to a common policy in North Africa.

At the bottom meanwhile, large groups of Spaniards who have resisted the dictatorship for a democratic form of government have received no encouragement from the western democracies. So they have been veering toward communism. There has been deep Communist infiltration among the students' workers' syndicates, intellectuals, even among public officials.

The tragedy is that Fascist to-talitarianism has prepared Spain for totalitarian communism. Under both fascism and communism there is no middle road.

Note—U. S. aid to Spain largely came about as a result of the persistent efforts of the late Pat Mc-Carran of Nevada, Franco lobbyist Clark, and his pal, Congressman Eugene Keough, Brooklyn Democrat. After taking no interest in Spain, Keough became friendly with Clark, turned up in Spain, where $5,000 cash was stolen from his pants in a sleeping car. How he happened to have $5,000 cash in his pocket is a mystery never satisfactorily explained.

Secretary of State Acheson and President Truman always opposed aid to Spain, until Pat McCarran rammed an appropriation through Congress over their heads.

A cow will eat 100 pounds of pasture feed every day.

Thinking It Over— For Lent

By Robt. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
Written for NEA Service

These early days of Lent should be devoted to taking stock of ourselves. Only in this way can we be sure we are truly humble and not merely talking about our self-satisfaction.

It is too easy to isolate ourselves in some kind of ivory towers, and really believe that we are better than other people.

Before we spend too much of the time of our Lenten devotions in praying that others may become like we are, it is well to ask ourselves.

How do we stack up in the thinking of other people?

What does our balance sheet look like?

Do we have valuable assets or have we watered down our personal stock to the point that it is of little value?

Many years ago a crowd of critics brought a young woman to Jesus with the demand that she be stoned to death. The Master looked at the people and at the girl. He did not accuse anyone of sin or crime.

He merely looked at the ground and said: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." After a few minutes he looked up and the crowd had vanished.

When the accusers took stock of themselves they knew they were not ready to judge other people.

Wisconsin ranked first in the production of 15 dairy products in 1954, from raw milk to Swiss cheese. It was second and third in two other products but 10th in ice cream manufacturing.

New, blue WISK is different from anything you ever tried. In the first place, it is a liquid you pour into your washer. It goes to work instantly. No waiting for powders to dissolve.

But, more important, new WISK is concentrated. It does three times as much wash as the same amount of powder. And does it better, too. For it gives you a concentrated washing power unequalled by any powder. Besides, new WISK is safe for hands, safe for fabrics — safe as only a liquid can be.

MAKES ANY WASHER TURN OUT A CLEANER AND WHITER FAMILY WASH

For concentrated liquid WISK penetrates deep into cloth fibers in a way no powder can. Safely, but thoroughly, it pulls out stubborn stains, removes hidden dirt, gets everything clean.

And wait till you see what WISK does for shirt collars and cuffs! Without bluing or bleach, WISK does the toughest jobs quicker, easier, more safely than products designed for these tasks. Now you can throw away those harsh and dangerous chemicals!

NO MORE MESSY, SNEEZY POWDERS!

And what a blessing WISK is! It does away with "washday hay fever" . . . with clumsy, soggy boxes . . . with messy powders that spill. And because WISK does so many jobs so well, you don't have to clutter your shelves with all those boxes and bottles you used to need.
